HISTORY

Forsyth Technical Institute can trace its beginning to early adult and high school vocational courses which were available in Winston-Salem. In 1958, a Chamber of Commerce Study Committee recommended that an Industrial Education Center be built to provide the trade and technical training needed by local industry. A bond issue provided the money to start construction of two buildings late in 1959, and the first adult classes were begun in October of 1960. In 1963, a third building was constructed, and new technical programs were added. That same year, the North Carolina Legislature passed The Community College Act, creating a statewide system of Community Colleges, Technical Institutes, and Industrial Education Centers. In January, 1964, the name of the school was changed to Forsyth Technical Institute. The operation of the school was transferred from the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Schools to the State Board of Education which in turn operates the school through the State Department of Community Colleges and a local Board of Trustees.

The fall enrollment for daytime students in 1972 in the associate degree curricula and in the vocational diploma programs was approximately one thousand students.

During the school year 1971-72, over eleven thousand residents of the area were enrolled in the vocational, technical, and adult education programs available through Forsyth Technical Institute.

Forsyth Technical Institute
2100 Silas Creek Parkway – Winston-Salem, North Carolina 27103

February 12, 1973

To the Reflector Staff:

It is my opinion that the 1972-73 Reflector is the best annual in the history of Forsyth Technical Institute. This was achieved through the hard work, long hours, and great talents of each and every one of you. I can still recall the day we were told there would be no annual due to the lack of students to work on the yearbook.

I would like to thank those students of the annual staff for their hard work and terrific cooperation. We had our minor disagreements, but we always seemed to come up with logical decisions.

Special thanks go to Mrs. Sally DeRamus, Mrs. Betty Chase, Miss Jeanne Torrance, Mr. Leroy Foster, and Mr. Bill Forrest. Your suggestions, assistance, and hard work were most rewarding.

As Editor, I can truthfully say that I've never worked with a finer, more dedicated group of people. In the many years to come (hopefully) I shall always treasure our association with the 1972-73 Reflector.

Thanks again for the wonderful job all of you did towards our annual.

Sincerely yours,
Kenneth A. Jolly
